As Time Moves on . . .

From the time we enter high school to the time we receive our diplomas, our days are filled with studies, people, activities, sports, and social events. For most of us, time passes much too quickly. Though school is difficult and at times we feel it is unimportant, we realize the heavy responsibility placed upon us as we graduate and enter into a community where before long, leadership duties may be ours.

Time is an important factor in our everchanging world. By taking advantage of educational and recreational opportunities offered by our community and school, we can be prepared well to take our places as leaders of our country.

. . . We Live and Learn at Nappanee High School

This past year has been filled with many exciting and memorable occasions. Our traditions and customs, plus our memories, have made our days interesting and worthwhile.

We are experiencing a new emphasis on science and mathematics. Training in these fields must reach an all-important high level. Come with us while we relive the eventful hours of this past year . . . AS TIME MOVES ON.

It's Time for Study

Studying is one factor which takes up much of the students' time in N.H.S. By studying, the students can learn the material they cover in their classes and also may become inspired to do additional work in certain subjects outside of class.

English Is a "Must" in Our School.

It's time for an English lesson at N.H.S. English is a required course for the first three years of high school. A college preparatory course requires four years of the study of our amazing language and its uses. The tools we learn to use are given a workout in compositions, as well as in our everyday activities. The second semester is devoted to the study of literature, both old and modern. Classroom participation in reading and interpreting stories is very beneficial to students enrolled in this course.

Speech class members gain abilities in many kinds of speaking. In addition to their classroom speeches, debates, and discussions, they present a skit at Halloween and Christmas.

Dixie Weaver, Kirby Miller, Mary Miller, Jill Stahly, and Maribeth Price examine antiques in Junior Practical English Class.

The annual Christmas play, presented by the speech class, depicts the "Miracle of the Christmas Creche."

Julius Caesar articles capture the attention of Paul Lundal, Carol Rohr, and Connie Searfoss as they pause at the bulletin board in the Sophomore English class.

These students presented "Cinderella" at the Latin banquet.

Connie Searfoss calls out the words for the game of "Latin."

Latin is almost a necessity for vocations dealing with medicine. A knowledge of Latin is also helpful to scientists. Many of our English words have Latin roots, which are studied in both years of Latin offered at N.H.S. The first year course is devoted mainly to a general study of the language of the Romans, and Latin II is about Julius Caesar. A "Roman Banquet" is held annually by the Latin classes. The menu is Roman and the entertainment is furnished by the students of Latin II.

All seniors are required to take one semester of U.S. government, and one semester of economics. Through these courses they learn more about the operation of our government on all levels and also the important trends in making a living.

With the aid of movies, lectures, and discussions the students learn more about the heritage of our country. U. S. History is a required course for juniors. This subject encourages the students to take an interest in the study of America.

World History is selected by students who wish to learn more about the historical backgrounds of other countries. It also gives a view of the changing times of past centuries and how they fit into our own history.

Studying this map of the Roman Empire are Bob Berger, Tom Dean, and Barbara Anderson.

The time for more well-educated and informed scientists has arrived with the importance of rockets, atomic weapons, and new medicines. Three courses of science offered by N.H.S. are biology, physical science, and physics.

Biology is the study of plants and animals in their classes, from the simplest forms to the most complex.

Physical science is offered for the students who wish to further their backgrounds in science. They are given a general knowledge of many sciences.

Students of physics study mechanics, heat, light, sound, and electricity, dealing with matter and energy that do not involve change in composition.

Science and Mathematics.

Our changing times with the many modern conveniences prove to us the importance of mathematics.

Algebra I, which is usually taken by freshmen, teaches its students the fundamentals and rules in solving problems and equations. It also prepares the student for algebra II in which the advanced math student can further his knowledge of numbers, graphs, and mathematical rules. Courses in plane and solid geometry, offered alternately, enable a student to have four years of math.

General math is primarily for the students who do not care to study algebra, but who do want to fulfill the requirement of one year of math. These students are taught to solve general problems they will meet after they graduate. The most advanced math class is trigonometry, which pertains to the measurement of triangles and the relationship between their sides and their angles.

These students are solving problems for their advanced algebra class.

Lonnie Marvel and Tina Knoble show various geometrical figures to the other geometry students.

These students are getting their assignments done for their business math class.

Art is a subject that tests the creativeness and originality of a student. The type of work varies with the season of the year. Models include vases, flowers, houses, and even classmates. The art classes are responsible for bulletin board displays and decorations for basketball and football games, banquets, and dances.

All sophomores are enrolled in a three weeks' course in drivers' training. It teaches them the basic rules of safety on the highway and gives them experience in driving.

Business courses offered to students are typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. Typing and shorthand emphasize quick movements and thought. Bookkeeping familiarizes the student with the operation of a business and the use of an adding machine.

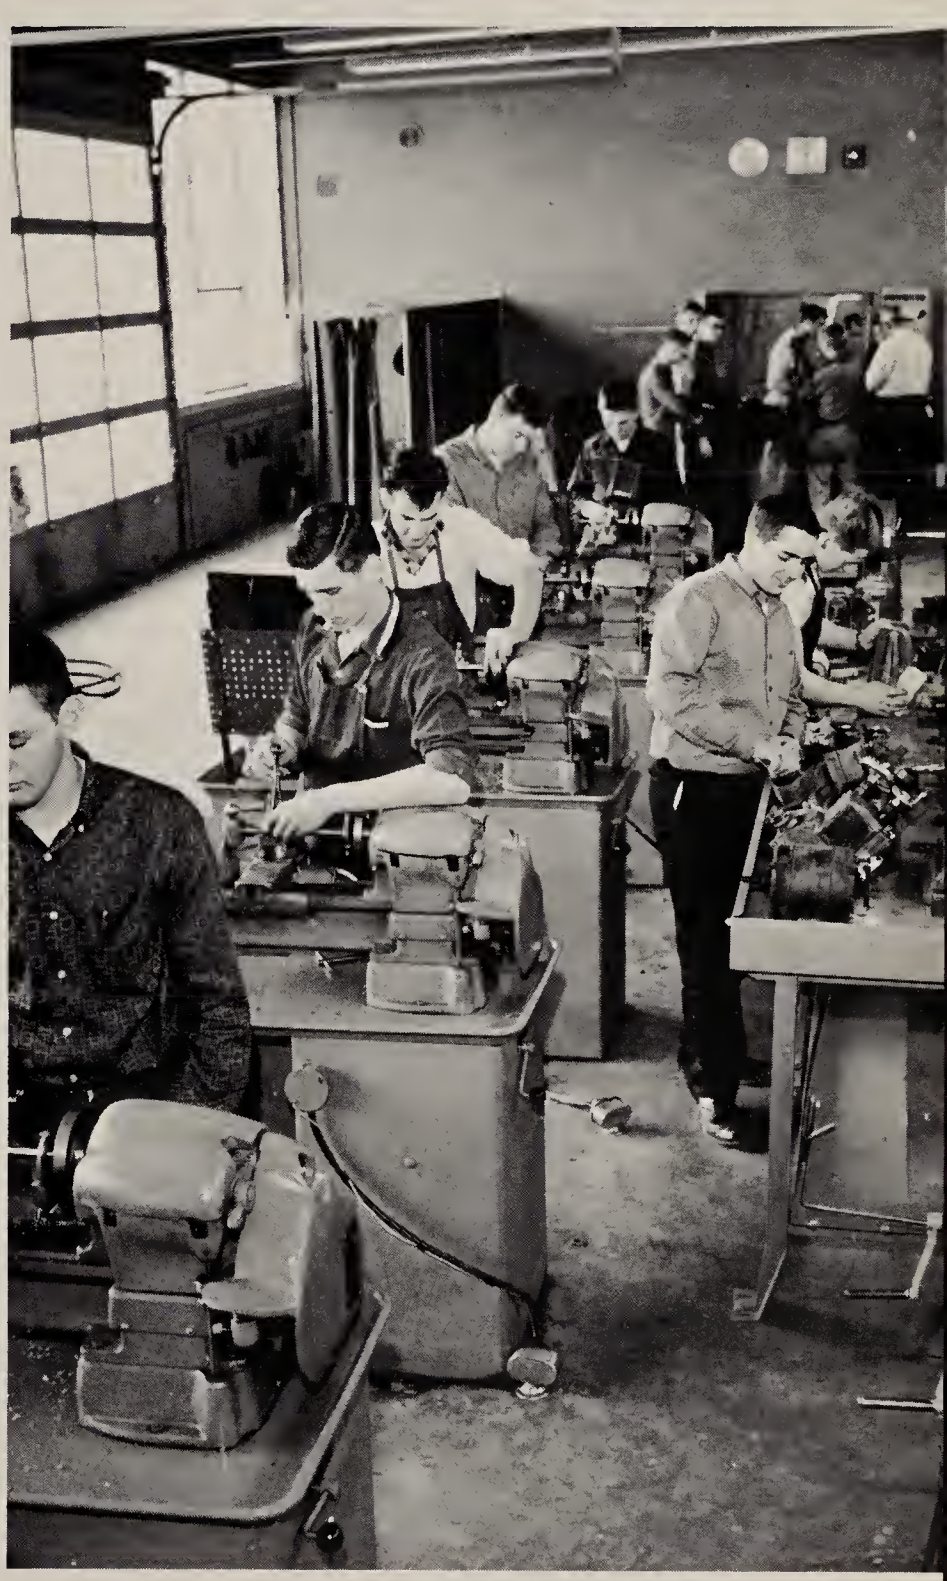
Home economics teaches the girls how to manage their future homes and prepares them to be homemakers of tomorrow. In four years they learn the skills of cooking balanced meals and decorating a home. Using modern sewing equipment, the girls learn to plan and sew their own wardrobes. Home nursing and child care are taught in the second year, and experience in planning a wedding is included in the fourth year.

Boys interested in shop can take a variety of courses including drafting, wood and metalworking, and auto mechanics. The freshmen are required to have a semester of both woodworking and drafting. Advanced classes of machine and architectural drawing and metalworking are also offered.



Boys in the machine shop class are occupied at bench work and lathes.

Joan Mishler, Ruth Blevins, and Judy Otto are modeling some of the clothes they made in home economics class.

It's Time for People

One of the things taking up much of the students' time is the people with whom they associate. Whether they are classmates, teachers, bus drivers, cooks, or just friends, they are an important part of the students' lives.

Haskell B. Osborn, Superintendent.

Mr. Osborn, the superintendent, is the chief administrator of the Nappanee Schools. He promotes good public relations between the schools and the community and with other schools.

Because of higher high school standards and increased enrollment he and the other capable school board members work diligently to secure qualified teachers.

Administrators Devote Many Hours

Mr. Weddle, the principal, has promoted a closer relationship between students, faculty, and administrators. He has done this by supporting extra-curricular activities, as well as the regular school curricula. He also counsels with the students and advises teachers on problems that arise in their classes. Mr. Weddle works hard to make the school recognized as outstanding in athletic and academic achievements.

1961 Spells Finale for Seniors.

Rob Lehman, president; Gwen Fisher, vice-president; and Mary Duckwall, secretary-treasurer, look at college brochures.

After twelve years of fun and learning the members of the class of '61 find themselves completing high school, ready to use the knowledge they have gained.

This last year has been the busiest and most exciting of all high school years, and one which seniors will never forget.

Many projects to help finance the traditional senior class trip were undertaken. Among these were a record hop, selling concessions at wrestling matches and basketball games, selling candy, and presenting the annual senior play.

The class chose as its motto, "Behind us knowledge; before us opportunity." The class flower was the yellow rose.

Although many new experiences await the class, the ones left behind will never be forgotten.

It's Time for

Activities

Activities help make the students' time in school more enjoyable. Some of the school clubs supplement many of the classes; some promote the religious welfare of the students; others act as the governing body of the school and honor outstanding students; and last, but not least, some of the clubs are mainly for the enjoyment of the students.

Publications Meet Deadlines As

Napanet editors Martha Robinson and Janet Burcham, with the assistance of junior editors Carol Hoffer and Elaine Pippenger and advisor Miss Esther Hoover, worked countless hours to prepare a Napanet that would give its readers cherished memories of an eventful year. Business management under the direction of Principal James Weddle was handled by Rob Lehman, Randy Richmond, Randy Weddle, and Jim Martz, who promoted the successful sales of the book.

The school newspaper, the "D'Bulldog," is published bi-monthly by the Journalism Club and the advanced typing class.

As a money-raising project the Journalism Club held a beatnik dance, the "Bongo Rock." The proceeds were used to finance the two "D'Bulldog" issues featuring sports pictures.

Much work goes into getting an issue of the "D'Bulldog" ready for distribution. After the latest scoops are written and the typists have typed the material, the two editors assemble the news on the dummy pages. Then the typists cut the stencils in preparation for the final production.

Kaaren Chandler, editor, and Karen Sue George, junior editor, prepare the headlines for the D'Bulldog.

D'Bulldog typists work hard to get out another publication of the school paper.

Honor Groups Are Representatives

Mary Duckwall, secretary-treasurer, Kaaren Chandler, president, and Anita Corwin, vice-president, get books for their next class.

Members of the National Honor Society, which consists of nine seniors and five juniors, are selected by the faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Fifteen percent of the members of the junior and senior classes are eligible. The club had two main projects this year. The members polished the trophies in the trophy case and also ushered at three Civic Theater plays.

The club met every other Tuesday and had discussions on various ways to improve the students' role in the school system. Mr. Paul Hartle is the sponsor.

Each member of the National Honor Society is automatically a member of the Student Council.

Martha Robinson, vice-president, Ron Kendall, secretary-treasurer, and Janet Burcham, president, decorate the school's Christmas tree.

This year the Student Council was an active body with many programs, discussions, and projects. The group was also responsible for locker inspections, the supervision of cheerleader elections, decorating the Christmas tree, sponsoring the second annual Homecoming and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, and also for purchasing a Polaroid camera for the school.

In order to stress the academic achievements of the student body, the council worked out the grade averages of each class.

The council is composed of a representative from each home room, the presidents of the junior and senior classes, and the National Honor Society.

The past year has been a very interesting one for the members of the Sr. Y-Teens. The annual initiation picnic of the sophomores was held early in the fall at Satuffer Park. The service projects of the Sr. Y-Teens included the donating of Christmas money to the Elkhart County Association for Mental Health, and helping with the Heart Fund Drive in February.

The outstanding social event of the year was the Mother-Daughter Banquet for which the girls spent many hours in preparation.

A wide variety of programs made the bi-monthly meetings enjoyable.

The Hi-Y strives to achieve the high goals of clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, and clean living. Devotions at the meetings lent a Christian atmosphere and made them more meaningful. The Hi-Y is associated with the state Young Men's Christian Association. By having Christian business men of the community speak to them, they endeavor to reach "a high standard of Christian character." Other programs included movies and club discussions.

The chief money-making project of the club was the coat and hat check at the basketball games. The club again conducted the annual clothing drive and made a donation to the mental hospital in Westville. The club occasionally went swimming at the Elkhart Y.M.C.A.

"Music Hath Charms."

Approximately eighty-five students participated in the high school chorus this year. The group was under the direction of Jerald Robertson. Combining with the concert band the chorus held their annual Christmas concert. On March 25 the chorus competed in the district contest at Auburn, Indiana, winning a coveted superior rating.

Many solos and two ensembles entered the district solo and ensemble contest at Elkhart. Other honors were awarded in the form of letters to seniors who had been members of the chorus for at least three years.

The girls' triple trio completed a successful year by singing in the spring concert. They sang for many civic groups during the year and they also entered the district contest.

The boys' quartet had many singing engagements during the school year. The group received a superior rating at district contest and had the privilege of entering state contest.

Members of the Boys' Quartet are Roger Holdeman, Don Peltier, Loren Berger, and Ronald Foeckler.

This has been a very worth-while year for the band members. Many students participated in the solo and ensemble contest, bringing back many awards to the band. The band participated in the band contest and proved its talent. The three concerts played by the band, and their final performance at Commencement showed superior accomplishments on the part of the players and director alike. The band showed its versatility in providing half-time shows for the football games. The precision marching was the fruit of many hours of hard work under the capable direction of drum majorette, Pam Phillips.

Serving as student librarians was one of the many activities of the members of the Library Club. The club visited many places throughout the year such as Saint Mary's Library, and it attended the District Librarians Meeting at South Bend.

The membership of the Projector Club consists of high school boys interested in showing films to various classes. This is done during the boys' study halls. These visual-aid enthusiasts were well-trained, and they provided an important part of student education.

Because of the growing visual-aid department the services of these competent boys are necessary, and they have fulfilled their obligations with great efficiency.

Numerous Clubs Attract Members

The Tri-Sci club is composed of junior and senior students interested in science. The club gives students with aptitudes in various fields of science an opportunity to develop these interests. Planning and organizing the high school science fair and taking a trip were activities of the club.

Eighth, ninth, and tenth grade students who are especially interested in science are members of the Students of Science club which offers students a chance to explore their field of interest.

The purpose of the Nappanee Future Teachers of America, a newly organized group, is to promote and develop interest in teaching as a vocation. Programs for bi-monthly meetings included guest speakers, informative film strips, panel discussions, and some social activity. Practical experience was presented when members served as cadet teachers in a few of the classrooms.

The Latin Club enjoyed a variety of programs. Each class presented a play. The highlight of the year was the Roman Banquet in May.

The Palette and Brush Club was entertained by many interesting guest speakers during the year. The club decorated for various activities, one of these being the Homecoming. For a money-making project the club sponsored a record hop.

It's Time for

Sports

Ball games, track meets, intramurals, and pep sessions all contribute to the time the students spend participating in sports or encouraging the teams on to victory. The hard work of the athletes and the spirit of all the students help to make the sports year interesting.

N-Men Subscribe to Many Sports.

N-Men officers, vice-president, Stan Lopp; treasurer, Ron Kendall; secretary, Randy Weddle; and president, Bob Lehman pause to look at Nappanee's trophies.

The N-Men's Club, sponsored by Mr. Young and Mr. Dougherty, had a very successful year. Besides the customary car washes in the spring and the fall, a record hop was added this year as a new project. The money received from these projects was apportioned in accordance to the budget adopted this year.

The annual N-Men's banquet, honoring coaches and athletes, was held on March 10 in the multi-purpose room. The guest speaker was Mr. Don Odle, head coach of Taylor University.

The N-Men's picnic was held at Lehmans' cottages at Syracuse Lake and was attended by members of the club and their dates.

Varsity cheerleaders Pat Masterson, Mary Duckwall, Karen Sue George, and Carol Hoffer lead the fans of the Bulldogs through another season.

Leading the supporters of the B's are B-team cheerleaders Susie Hartman, Betty Hawley, and Judy Keck.

The pep block worked diligently throughout its second year. The group traveled to several games out of town to help cheer the team on to victory. It also sponsored a dance to help finance the club.

The B-team and varsity cheerleaders worked very hard preparing and perfecting yells for the club.

Mrs. Woodham's was the club's patient sponsor, and to her much credit must be given for the club's success.

"N" is only one of the many letters the pep club makes throughout the basketball season.

This year's Bulldogs again were small in physical stature but made up for it with tremendous desire and team spirit.

Guided by coach Jerry Young and his assistants, Jon Mayfield and Don McKee, the Bulldogs finished with a record of three wins and six losses.

Rob Lehman was chosen team captain and most valuable player at the annual N-Men's Banquet. Senior guard Dan Geyer made first team all-area and also received all-state honorable mention. The most improved player was Tom Rohr.

Lost by graduation were Steve Cleveland, Dick Clouse, Dan Geyer, Rob Lehman, Sam Longanecker, Brant Nettrour, Steve Quigley, Fred Slabaugh, Lynn Smeltzer, and Dale Stone.

The Bulldogs started the season very slowly, but with every game they improved immensely. Since there were only three returning lettermen, the team was composed mostly of underclassmen.

In the Holiday Tourney the Bulldogs defeated Bremen in the first game but were defeated by Warsaw in the championship game.

The Bulldogs defeated Wakarusa in their first game of the sectional tourney but then bowed to Concord.

At the N-Men's Banquet Brant Nettrour received the team captain and the most valuable player awards; Ron Kendall was the recipient of the award for the highest percentage in free-throws.

Lost by graduation are center, Dave Berger; forward, Ron Lehman; guard, Brant Nettrour; and forward, Steve Quigley.

Coach Don McKee's B-team, composed mostly of freshmen and sophomores, appeared to be very promising as the year progressed.

In the Holiday Tourney at Plymouth the B-team looked good but was edged out in the last quarter of both games.

Some of the players on the B-squad are expected to help the varsity next year, while others will form the nucleus for a good B-squad.

Mike Hoyt breaks the string for another Nappanee victory in the mile run.

Mike Geyer tries to break the record in the broad jump at the meet with New Carlisle.

The enthusiasm for and interest in track indicated the increasing popularity of this sport. In spite of there being only six returning lettermen, Steve Cleveland, Stan Lopp, Dan Geyer, Rob Wallace, Ron Kendall, and Doug Weaver, the team did very well.

The team displayed skill at the Goshen and Kokomo Relays, where they placed third and seventh, respectively.

This year the team succeeded in shattering three Nappanee High School track records. Randy Weddle ran the 220 yard dash in 22.0 seconds and the 100 yard dash in 10.0 seconds. Rob Lehman, Rob Wallace, Tod Lehman, and Randy Weddle broke the half-mile relay record in 1:33.1 seconds.

At the sectional track meet in Elkhart and the regional track meet in Ft. Wayne, Randy Weddle placed first in the 220 and 100 yard dash. He then qualified for state and placed fourth in the 220.

Much credit must be given to coaches Jon Mayfield, Don McKee, Keith Dougherty, and Jerry Young for the good team they developed.

Intramural Schedules Abound.

Members of two intramural teams wait to see if the basketball goes through the net for another two points.

These girls are only a few who enjoyed dancing during the noon hour.

The intramural program, directed this year by Mr. Jon Mayfield, gave sixty-eight boys who did not play on the high school basketball teams an opportunity to show their athletic abilities. Six teams, each consisting of four boys, bowled on Mondays after school.

Each Wednesday evening six basketball teams met in sporting competition. Tournaments in both of these sports climaxed the boys' intramural activities of the year. Dancing in the gym was a favorite recreation of students during the noon hour.

FOURTH ROW: Tina Knobel, Sharon Rohr, Carol Hollar, Victoria Hochstetler, Joan Mishler, Mary Pippenger, Susan Reprogle, Martha Mikel, Judy Reed, Judith Haines.

The Eighth Grade Sports Club is the ideal club for boys interested in sports, especially those sports usually not included in the school's schedules. The club organized a ping-pong tournament near the close of the year. Mr. Best, the sponsor, led the club through a profitable year.

"Let's go!" was the cry of the G.A.A. girls to get their Monday night meetings started. At these meetings they developed skill in many different sports.

The highlights of the year were the playdays, the basketball game with Bremen, the Mother and Daughter Banquet, and the district camp.

Barbara Stouder, Mary Frances Hoffer, Janice Berger, and Marilyn Lutes received the Senior Awards, highest honor given by the club. These awards are given to persons who have accumulated a specified number of points in a variety of sports.

FIRST ROW: Jack Hamman, Dennis Cripe, Jacob Dermott, Jerry Clipp, Danny Shaw, Roderick Manifold. It's Time for

Social Life

Parties, projects, plays, and programs are only a part of the social life of N.H.S. Much hard work is necessary to plan the many social events of the year; but it always proves profitable, and all of these activities are enjoyed by the student body.

1960-61 Homecoming Queen Reigns

At the half time of the Rochester-Nappanee game, the name of the 1960-61 Homecoming Queen was announced. Tension was high as the crowd awaited the crowning of Her Majesty by last year's queen, Portia Mutschler. After the fanfare, played by the band, Mary Duckwall was crowned as the second Homecoming Queen of N.H.S.

Planning the Homecoming events was the responsibility of the Student Council.

The election of the queen and court consisted of selecting an attendant from each of the three lower classes and the queen from the senior class. The queen was crowned to the theme of "Cinderella," the half-time show presented by the N.H.S. marching band.

After the football game a dance for all students and alumni was held in the multi-purpose room. The dance, held in honor of Queen Mary and her court, featured Bob Smith's quartet. One of the highlights of the Homecoming was the spotlight dance for the 1960-61 queen and her escort, Rob Lehman. Time moves on, but the memory lingers.

Variety in Themes Enhances Proms.

Magician Dick Stoner demonstrates how to link the rings, but George Freese tries in vain.

Steve Quigley, Mary Duckwall, Sandra Martz, and Steve Dawson prophesy for the class of 1961.

As juniors, the class of 1961 feted the 1960 seniors in the Empire Room of the Hotel Elkhart. The theme was Shangrila, providing an Oriental motif that challenged the imagination of all guests.

With decorations portraying a South of the Border setting the class of 1962 transformed the high school gymnasium into a veritable Mexican Fiesta. Table decorations, menu, and program created a festive atmosphere which was repeated in the all-purpose room where the traditional prom culminated an evening of entertainment long to be remembered.

Rob Lehman, Mary Duckwall, Carol Hoffer, and Randy Weddle are officially welcomed to the 1961 Reception by the toreador.

We Dance, Formally and Otherwise.

Record hops and semi-formal dances added variety to the students' social life.

The first semi-formal dance was the Teen Town Snowball held during the Christmas holidays. The beautiful decorations of tissue snowballs hanging from the ceiling of the all-purpose room plus the music of Charles Dickerhoff and her band set the atmosphere for a winter's evening of fun.

In January the Journalism Club substituted a beatnik record hop, the Bongo Rock, for its traditional Thanksgiving dance. Jerry Honeycutt, Steve Fervida, Tom Stoops, and Jim Weaver premiered their newly-organized band at this dance. Real cool, man, is the word for this rumble.

Top picture: Jerry Honeycutt, Jim Weaver, and Steve Fervida provide rock 'n' roll music for dancers at the Bongo Rock.

Seniors Try a Bit of Drama, too.

The seniors presented enjoyable entertainment on April 20 and 21, when a capable cast, under the direction of Mrs. Miles and Miss Hoover, shared with appreciative audiences the hilarious episodes of Tom and Esther Taylor.

They, with Patty and Chuck, won a radio quiz, receiving a variety of gifts including a movie star's visit, many boxes of canned food and candy, even a household maid. Jealous neighbors created problems, sympathetically shared by the Taylors' friends.

Class Projects Add to Treasuries.

During the school year the high school classes had special projects to raise money, which was used for their various expenses and saved for the annual senior trip.

The freshmen, the first to have a project, changed from the traditional paper drive and sold pens, which had the 1960 football schedule printed on them.

The sophomores during the early months of winter sold Queen Anne candies to increase their treasury and to boost them onto the second rung of the ladder in their climb toward a senior trip.

The juniors worked industriously during the year selling magazine subscriptions and planning the annual Reception. The bulk of the money received from the magazine sales was used to finance the Reception; the remainder was kept for their senior trip.

Throughout the year the seniors had many projects to increase the funds for their trip to Washington, D.C. Among these were selling candy, presenting a play, and selling "Napanets." All their endeavors were successful, and they earned enough money for their long-anticipated journey.
